COMMENT OF THE DAY

GIs Leaving

THE Kishi-Eisenhower decision to begin the withdrawal of American forces should be well received in Japan. It was as much us political commentators had hoped for before Mr Kishi's departure for Washington. Although there has been no serious agitation for the withdrawal of American forces there has been a fairly strong current of feeling that their presence compromised Japan's full independence. But the idea that the Ameriforces should evenleave has been current for some timeever since Japan announced plans for its own selfdefence forces. This six-year plan is now in its third year -- and apparently America is satisfied that the build-up is progressing satisfactorily and that the current mutual security kets.

An Example Of Stoicism

London, June 24.

The Manchester Guardian quoted as "an example of stoicism" the following unsigned letter—ostensibly from a bricklayer in the Barbados to his contracting Respected Sir.

When I got to the building, I found that the hurricane had knocked some bricks off the top. So I rigged up a beam with a pulley at the top of the building and hoisted up a couple of barrels full of bricks. When I had fixed the building, there was a lot of bricks left over.

"I hoisted the barrel back up again and secured the line at the bottom and then went up and filled the barrel with extra bricks. Then I went to the bottom and cast off

Unfortunately, the barrel of bricks was heavier than was, and before I knew what was happening the barrel started down; jerking me off the ground. I decided to hang on and halfway up I met the barrel coming down and received a severe blow on the shoulder.

Going Down

"I then continued to the top, banging my head against the beam and getting my fingers jammed in the pulley. When the barrel hit the ground it bursted its bottom allowing all the bricks to spill out.

"I was now heavier than the barret and so started down again at high speed. Halfway down, I met the barrel coming up and received severe injuries to my shins. When I hit the ground I landed on the bricks, getting several painful cuth from the sharp edges:

"At this point I must have lost my presence of mind, because I let go the line. The barret then came down giving me another heavy blow on the head and putting me in hospital.

"I respectfully request sick leave."-United Press.

The Western Powers were reported to have given up their earlier view that any progress in disarmament should be conditional on progress being made towards the settlement of world political problems, such as the reunification of Germany.

Now it was agreed that the first stage could come about without any political conditions, but it would still be desirable that second and subsequent stages should go hand in hand with progress towards political settlements.

Observers regarded the reported second and third stages American proposals as signifleant, since hitherto the United States had refused to commit itself to a ceiling of less than

Tough Play Sets South

By OSWALD JACOBY

IF you want to get the most out of today's article 150k at the bidding and at the East and North hands only. Then put yourself in the position of Dan Westerfield of Phoenix who was East and see if you come up with the right defence.

Dan won his partner's opening lead of the deuce of diamonds with the king and looked over the dummy carefully. Four tricks would be necessary to defeat the contract and Dan expected to make three of them himself. The problem was to get a fourth out of his partner's king of spades. South had come in freely with a bid of two hearts on a suit headed by king-jack at best and the king of spades was the only other really high card that he wasn't looking at in his own hand or tion. It is up to you to do your share in making your dreams come in dummy.

Once he had concluded that South held the king of spades Dan had no real problem left. The only way he could beat the hand would be to find his part ner with both the queen and jack of clubs. Accordingly Dan shifted to the six of clubs.

This play produced two club tricks for his side and bent the contract. Easy enough if you can see all the cards but a right

BRADMAN CLASS

The Leg Stump Ball Keeps Both Peter May And Walcott Quiet

Says BRUCE DOOLAND

I have a good idea what the West Indies bowlers—and the England bowlers too—are feeling like right now. I've bowled to nearly all the characters engaged in this Test and know most of the headaches that go with that particular pastime.

Most of the experts these days rate Peter May and Clyde Walcott as joint batting champions of the world; and I suppose that is fair enough. I couldn't name any better anywhere. And although I've thought a great deal about it can't make up my mind which of these two is the more difficult to bowl to.

They both have a full range of going to pitch.

And don't think I was only one. I merely put it this way to give the personal experience. The Don hit them all—just as hard, I suppose the basis of his mastery was, his incredible eye and perfection of judgment.

Black and white films versus colour and the chemistry of leading players are two topics of great influence in making pictures these days, according to producer William Perlberg.

"Colour is a fine attraction to have in a picture, but it also can be a distraction in certain types of pictures," Perlberg said. "Of course, we don't all think alike on a lot of things, but I'm sure that colour and comedy don't mix. I'd shoot a comedy in black and white. A musical is another matter—that should be done in colour. I think."

State Opera House Receives Support Of Labour Party

By H. KING WOOD

Sydney, (By Airmail). The unofficial parliament of NSW—the State Australian Labour Party Annual Conference—met in Sydney during the holiday weekend and did quite a lot of things to pinpoint more than ever the fact that it believes that it has some considerable hold on the Government even if the belief is greater than reality.

It should be kept in mind that most members of the State Parliament attended some of the sittings and even if they didn't, they do have considerable sway in their Labour branches. Also the majority of union secretaries and presidents are members of the State Upper House and that the Premier, Mr Cahill, was at times an unhappy listener at the official table.

Three things are striking about the agenda for the economic talks the Commonwealth Prime Ministers will be having in London this week. The first is that with one important exception, the topics are the same ones that crop up at conference after conference:

Secondly all of them are actual or potential causes of friction. Thirdly none of the problems that will be discussed is susceptible of quick or easy solution.

Assurances

British Government has given repeated assurances that in any circumstances in which it was necessary to make a choice between maintenance of Commonwealth economic ties and enough. The existing arrangecloser collaboration in economic field with Western Europe it would unhesitatingly likely to have any in future choose the former. But Commonwealth fears have not been entirely allayed.

Some Commonwealth coun what should be done. tries are having second thoughts about the possible effects on their own trade of Britain's likely free trade arrangements with Western Europe. And Mr John Diefenbaker the new Canadian Prime Minister is problem in terms of improving frankly suspicious about the the over-all balance of pay-whole thing. Indeed his reported intention to invite Commonwealth leaders to a trade conference in Ottawa is the only really new idea that is likely to come out of this part of Prime Ministers' Conference On the question of trade some of the Prime Ministers will ask for a reappraisal of the Imperial Preference System. And where better to make that reappraisal than Ottawa where the system was born a quarter of a century

Still on the subject of trade Prime Ministers examine the balance of payments position of the Commonwealth sterling bloc and each member's part in it.

The persistent deficit in the overseas sterling area's payments with the non-sterling world is the main reason why the famous convertibility plan—the product of a previous Prime Ministers conference—has disappeared into some Treasury pigeon-hole.

In Deficit

payments have been in deficit to pronounce on this subject at every year since 1951 with the their present conference. But exception of 1953. Last year would it be too much to hope million.

In these six years the total overseas sterling area deficit has emounted to £526 million. But over this period Britain itself has carned a surplus of foreign exchange sufficient to finance all but £112 million of the oversens sterling area's deficit,

The Commonwealth Prime Ministers do not as a rule apportion blame but they can Stock Market hardly discuss balance of payments without taking note of the fact that last year, India's individual payments deficit more louing stock sylves than accounted for the deficit of the entire overseas sterling

The Prime Ministers will not come up with cut and dried colutions to whose trade and payments problems. But it would be a pity if they let opportunity go by without at least exchanging views on the possibility of setting up some permanent machinery for Commonwealth cconomic operation, The need for this grows each year. Quite apart from the fact that comornic expansion of Western Europe, which has such an organisation, has drematically outpaced that of the Commonwealth since the war, there are very good reasons for believing Commonwealth countries man who is in the "inner circle" of the motor car trade in Hongkong said today he did not think there would be the 70,000 vehicles on the Colony's highways in 1967.

Mr W. Nichol, Manager of the Metro Cars (Hongkong), Ltd. estimated the figure would be about 58,000.

A little more than 12,500 passenger cars purchased during the period of 1946-55 would have been off the road altogether because of old-age. This, he said, would have to be taken into consideration.

The figure, he added, concerned only British-make cars, ness are sitting pretty now," The actual number of cars Mr Nichol said. (Traffic Department figure shows that about 700 motors vehicles were either taken off the_road or expected in 1956). Mr Nichol said at any given date the actual number of cars on the roads was smaller than the number of vehicles licensed. He said he knew of quite a number of people owning more than one car—a large one for family use during holidays and a smaller for daily use.
